TROLLEY POLES TO BE REMOVED SOON

Superintendent of Construction Expected to Begin Work Here Wednesday Morning.

SPECIAL ENGINEER TO AID

Work of Constructing Concrete Bases for Post Lights Will be Started Without Delay.

The task of removing the trolley poles belonging to the Interstate Public Service Company from the district which will be illuminated by electric post light will probably be started Wednesday morning. W. L. Jennings, superintendent of construction, and a force of linemen are expected here late today or tomorrow morning. Mr. Jennings has called in the assistance of a special engineer to supervise with him in this work. The special engineer had charge of the work in Louisville when the poles were taken down and the trolley wires anchored from the buildings. The traction company is expected to be prepared to do this work promptly and probably not more than a day or two will be required.

A few poles at the corner and at certain locations where the building are not sufficiently high to serve as anchors will be permitted to stand, but the committee here hopes to have iron poles placed instead of the wood poles. Arrangements will be made so that the poles which are necessary will not interfere with the construction of the post lighting system.

W. L. Clark, who has the contract for the construction of the lighting system, expects to lay some of the concrete bases within the next week or ten days. A heavy iron plates will be placed over each concrete base and upon these the posts will be anchored. The committee has determined that the posts shall be located designated equal distance apart so that they will best illuminate the streets and sidewalks.

The conduit for the underground wires will be laid just outside the curbing. Mr. Clark does not believe that any serious delay will be experienced in getting a prompt shipment of the materials and is making arrangements to push the construction work as rapidly as possible.

ATTENDS MEETING OF BOARD OF CHARITIES

J. B. Cross, Superintendent of County Poor Farm Made Member of The Legislative Committee.

J. B. Cross, county poor farm superintendent, was in the city this afternoon enroute to his home in Brownstown from Fort Wayne where he has been attending the state meeting of the board of charities which was in session there Monday, Tuesday and today.

Mr. Cross addressed the meeting Monday afternoon. At the annual election of state officers he was made a member of the legislative committee. Mr. Cross stated that the meeting was largely attended and several interesting speakers from over the state were on the three days program.

SEWER COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING THIS AFTERNOON

Receive Figures on Approximate Cost for a Preliminary Survey of Sewer System.

The members of the committee appointed by the city council and those representing the Chamber of Commerce held a meeting at Clark B. Davis' office in the Masonic building this afternoon. Mr. Jennings, of the firm of Jennings & Lawrence, civil engineers, of Columbus, Ohio, attended the meeting and supplied the committee with figures on the approximate cost for a preliminary survey.

Mr. Jennings spoke at some length in regard to the proposed sewer proposition in this city. He has specialized in the sewer survey work and the committee received some valuable information through his talk this afternoon.

TAX RATES TO BE MADE KNOWN SOON

Expected That State Board Will Fix Levy for Seymour Slightly in Excess of $2.

STATE RATE NOT DETERMINED

Levies in Three Counties Already Announced and Others Will be Decided Upon Shortly.

Announcement by the stateboard of tax commissioners of the levies that will prevail in 1920 in the different taxing units of three counties, has renewed speculation here as to what the levies will be in Seymour and Jackson county. The rates first to be determined by the state were much less than those that were used this year and in some instances were only one-third of the present levies. Whether or not these can be used as a criterion for the rest of the state is not known. The board, however, is determining each levy according to local conditions without reference to the rest of the state.

It has been expected here for some time that the levy for Seymour will be about $2 on the hundred dollars. This will include all taxes to be collected. The officials of the city have figured that the rate may be slightly in excess of $2 while others believe that a rate of about $1.95 will suffice. The rate to be fixed by the state board at this time will not include the state levy as it has not been finally decided. This is expected to be from eighteen to twenty cents. The rate in Seymour this year for all purposes is $4.02 and as property was supposed to be listed at its true cash value or approximately twice the appraisalment this year it is generally

Organization Believes That Proposed Aerial Service Will Mean Much to This City.

An interesting meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held at the city building last night, it being the first to be conducted under the administration of John S. Shields, president, who was elected head of the organization at the annual meeting about a month ago. Mr. Shields made an interesting talk after calling the session to order giving a general outline of the plans which he had in mind for the coming year. He recently announced the chairman of the several committees which will be held responsible for the burden of the work of the association this year and stated that the members of the committees as well as the sub-committees will soon be announced. Mr. Shields has prepared a chart showing the plan of the organization together with the various committees and sub-committees.

Claude Carter, chairman of the civic improvement committee, reported that several plans were under way for the erection of entrances at the main gateways of the city. It was recently proposed that the chamber of commerce or the Jackson county motor club erect signs of some character.

GREAT AIR DERBY OVER CONTINENT

America's Fastest Planes "Hop Off" on Both the Atlantic and Pacific Coast.

TWELVE DAYS FOR THE TRIP

Craft May Stop for Minor Repairs and Fuel at Twenty-one Designated Control Stations.

By United Press
New York, October 8.—The greatest aerial race in history began at 9:15 a. m. today when seventy-one airplanes started the "take off" on a trans-continental flight between New York and San Francisco. Sixty-five of the machines were scheduled to leave Mineola and the remainder were to start from San Francisco. The race across the continent and back, more than 5,400 miles, was expected to require at least twelve days. There are twenty-one control stations where each plane will stop for thirty minutes. Planes remaining more than forty-eight hours at a station will be eliminated. There will be no night flying.

Fifty-seven planes were to leave Hazlehurst field, Mineola, L. I., for the Pacific coast simultaneously with the departure from Atlantic seaboard.

The race was open to government planes with a speed of 100 miles an hour or better. Any army pilot from the Eastern, Central or Western department of the army was eligible to compete after he had received written approval from his commanding officer.

Rules for the flight as announced by Capt. Archie Miller, commander of army aviation on Long Island, included the provision that there would be no night flying and that there should be compulsory stops off at control stations along the routes. No stop shall be for less than half an hour nor more than 48 hours.

The stops were designed as follows: Binghamton, Rochester and Buffalo, N. Y.; Cleveland and Bryan, O.; Chicago and Rock Island, Ill.; Des Moines, Ia.; Omaha and North Platte, and Sidney, Neb.; Cheyenne, Wyo.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Safford, Battle Mountain and Reno, Nev.; Sacramento and San Francisco, Cal.

Several of the flyers who took part in the Toronto to New York race have entered the trans-continental contest. The flights were planned jointly by the army and the American Flying Club of New York.

No prizes were offered, the glory of winning being the only incentive. The flyers will be fed enroute by Red Cross Societies and local civic bodies at no expense to the government.

Dance.

There will be the first of a series of dances given next Friday evening, October 10, at 8:30 p. m. on the second floor of the K. of P. building by the Seymour Orchestra composed of Will Zickler, Ed Nutter, Harry Hubbard, Sim Turmail and Chauncey Goodwin. Present your invitations at the door. o1cd

A mass meeting of citizens was held last night under direction of army officers.

Maj. J. G. Pye, asked for volunteers to assist troops in preserving order. Two hundred former soldiers volunteered and were placed on duty today.

AUTOMOBILE PROTECTION.

The practice of automobile stealing has become so general throughout the United States that it is receiving the serious attention of congress. Congressman L. C. Dyer, of the St. Louis district, is the author of a bill which makes it a crime punishable by ten years' imprisonment to steal an automobile and take it across the border of the state in which it was stolen. Automobile owners throughout the country are awakened to the need of such a measure and are solidly behind the proposed law.

During the last few months a number of automobiles have been stolen in this locality and the percentage of thefts here is very small in comparison to those in larger cities. Only a few of the machine stolen are ever recovered. It is known that organized bands of thieves are working together in various parts of the country and that an automobile stolen in one state is placed on sale in some distant state. The bands are so organized that the stolen machine changes hands several times before it reaches its destination where it is to be offered for sale. Evidence of the operation of such gangs has been uncovered by the local police during the last month. Automobile stealing would be made much more perilous if a federal law were enacted to punish the thief. Under the present laws a witness cannot be brought from one state to another to testify in such cases, unless he consents to appear. The present laws are all in favor of the thieves and are valueless in most cases as they are local statutes and do not apply to interstate traffic in stolen machines.

Insurance companies which insure automobiles from theft recognize the increase danger of the cars being stolen. This kind of insurance costs several times what it did a few years ago. This, of course, is because of the heavy losses which are apportioned among the policy holders. The Dyer bill would serve to curb automobile thefts and should result in a direct saving to owners.

SWEETS AND PROHIBITION.

Statistics which have been gathered recently show that there has been a marked increase in the consumption of candy and syrup drinks since the prohibition law became effective. Sugar refiners declare that the demand for sugar became greater as additional territory was added to the dry column and that the sales have jumped noticeably since the prohibition law became nation-wide in its scope. Local dealers in candy and soft drinks have also noticed the growth of their business since the saloons disappeared.

The enactment of the prohibition law did not remove the appetite of habitual visitors of the saloon for alcoholic liquors. It merely removed the drinks and the users of intoxicants found the desire for substitutes. Naturally they turned to soft drinks as the most kindred mixture available to take the place of that to which they had become accustomed. The use of soft drinks encouraged the more liberal use of candy which can be conveniently carried. The sudden breaking off of the old habit resulted in the forming of new ones. But sugar has never been decreed as injurious to the physical and mental well being of the individual as has alcohol. Whether the use of candy and sweet drinks will continue to be used as substitutes or in time will be dropped remains a matter of conjecture. At any rate sugar refiners point to the increased use of sugar by former habitual users of intoxicants as another reason for the increased consumption of sugar.

If Chicago could pitch Kerr the remaining games the series might go to nine.

Cincinnati now knows that there is many a slip between the fourth and the tenth.

GERMANS AMAZED AT AMERICAN PROHIBITION

However They Can't Get Away from The Fact That Alcohol is Demon of Nation.

By United Press

Berlin, October 8—Although Germany will have none of the American prohibition, her statistical bureaus show that reduced war-time alcoholic consumption has had a beneficial result on the nation.

The German holds up his hands in horror at the idea that America has gone "dry." He simply doesn't comprehend. Nothing to drink? No, not a thing. What are they thinking of in America? he asks.

On the other hand his own statistics have proved to the German that alcohol is a demon, destroying as it goes.

While statistics are not available for the entire war period, and there are no figures for recent days, it develops that in Prussia there were in 1914 insanity cases numbering 6,146 due to alcohol, while the figures kept dropping to 1917 when the last accurate statistics were available.

In 1915 alcoholic insanity cases numbered 3,406; in 1916, 2,469 cases, and in 1917, 1,564 cases while deaths from alcoholism amounted as follows: 1914—917; 1915—650; 1916—271; 1917—148.

Suicide has been reported on the increase in Germany, but figures are lacking to prove this theory. During the war, the government kept no statistics to show where self destruction stood. Since the revolution, however, it is reported that many middle-class people have been suicides. This is said to be due to despondency over Germany's future; to the fact that some of these middle class people have seen their small savings of years eaten up in the all-consuming drop of the German "valuta," and to a general indifference toward life, engendered by four years of war.

Suicides in Germany during 1913 numbered about 15,000 while they dropped in 1914 by about 1,000. At the same time there appeared a smaller number of cases of insanity in the German asylums. For 1913, there were 152,351 cases of insanity in Prussia, while in 1914 there were 149,699 cases; and this number dropped in 1915 to 138,792.

Reverting to the effect of alcoholism on the German vital statistics, it may be pointed out that, during the war, the German nation was shut off from some of the stronger alcoholic beverages—"schnapps" to which it had formerly been accustomed, while its beer—the national beverage—went down from above four percent.

Encouraging Bolshevism

Everything that falsely encourages unrest also encourages bolshevism.

Misunderstanding of American industrial organization, and of its benefits to mankind, leads to unrest, dissatisfaction, and radicalism.

For example, the Federal Trade Commission tells the public that the large packers had an agreed price for lard substitute (made of cotton-seed oil.)

It reproduces letters taken from the files of one of the packers, showing that such agreed price existed.

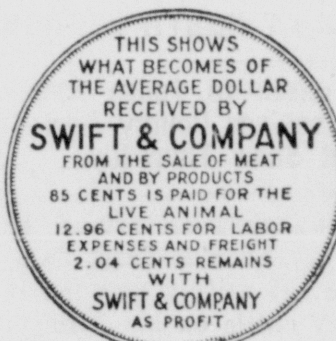

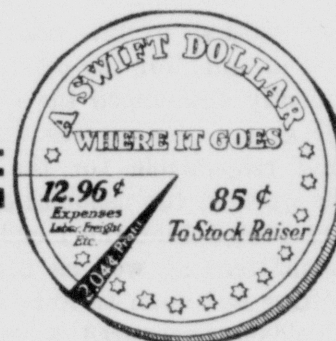

But it failed to mention that the agreed price was determined at the request of and in co-operation with the Food Administration!

Even the Department of Justice, in its unjust attempt to create prejudice against the packers, has made public these same letters, with no explanation.

How long must this kind of misrepresentation continue? In so far as it is believed, it not only breeds discontent, but results in injustice to our industry.

alcohol to about one percent or less. The German resents the idea of prohibition as an infringement on "personal liberty" and says that it will never come here. But, it is to be noted that only a few days ago a prohibition gathering assembled in Berlin, and favored the introduction of this system here.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED IN BARTHOLOMEW CIRCUIT COURT

Charles E. Cooper Seeking Divorce
From Gladys Cooper—Formerly Resided Here.

Charles E. Cooper has filed suit in circuit court for divorce from his wife, Gladys Cooper, his attorneys being Kollmyer and Sharpnack.

In his complaint the plaintiff states the couple were married on May 26, 1917, and separated July 14, 1917. He alleges that the defendant had had improper relations with other men. That when he joined the service in 1918 he and the defendant made up and decided to live together when he returned from service. The defendant received an allotment from the government, but after his return they lived together for two weeks, when he again discovered his wife had had improper relations with men, and had received a letter from another man other than her husband. Cooper claims to have resided in this county for the past six months, although the couple were formerly from Seymour—Columbus Herald.

HINES SAYS U. S. WILL NOT INCREASE FREIGHT RATES

Director General Says Public Wants
Interstate Commission to Retain Authority.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The railroad administration will make no increase in freight rates before return of the railroads to private operation January 1.

Director General Hines wrote T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the railway executives, that it would be "impossible for the government to establish any general readjustment of rates," because earnings of the roads under the abnormal conditions prevailing in the early part of this year did not afford a fair test of income.

The manifest desire of the public to have the Interstate Commerce Commission exercise full authority in any readjustment of rates to be effective under private control also was cited by the director general as an objection to the railroad administration's undertaking such a readjustment.

PROHIBITION INCREASES THE DEMAND FOR SUGAR

Persons Accustomed to Liquor Are Now Turning Their Attention to Candy and Sweet Meats.

Boston, Oct. 8.—The effect of prohibition on the sugar supply of the country is already apparent, according to W. K. Green, general manager of the American Sugar Refinery here. He also says that more sugar has been brought into the country this year than ever before.

Persons accustomed to liquor are now turning to candy and other sweets to satisfy the craving for alcohol, it was pointed out at a conference between sugar manufacturers and the State Commission on the Necessities of Life.

Dwight P. Thomas, head of the Revere Sugar Refining Company, declared that the consumption of sugar in the United States will be the largest in the history of the country. Last year, he said, the total consumption was 3,800,000 tons. For the first six months of 1919 the consumption reached 2,000,000 tons, and probably will be more than 4,000,000.

Thomas asserted that the export trade has no effect on the domestic sugar supply.

LICENSING OF REAL ESTATE DEALERS TO BE PROPOSED

Realty Association Sees Advantages in Having Each Member Officially Listed.

By United Press

Kokomo, Oct. 8.—Official action seeking state legislation to compel the licensing of realtors is expected to be taken by the Indiana Real Estate association, which opened its annual meeting here today. This question has been before the local branches of the association for some time and some of them, particularly Indianapolis, planned to start a movement at the meeting now in session to obtain organized backing for such legislation.

The Indianapolis Real Estate Board will put up a strong fight to take the next meeting to the Hoosier capitol.

Standardization of rentals throughout the state was expected to be one of the results of the convention.

American Bigness in Scout Movement

"In the July number of the Headquarters Gazette, the official organ of the British Boy Scouts Association are many interesting references to the British Chief Scout's visit to America and his impressions of our country and our scouts," writes James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, in his "Official News" in the October Boys' Life. "He speaks of the bigness of everything in America, of the large scale of the work done at Headquarters, of the huge family-gathering, the scout banquet given in his honor in New York City where nearly a thousand guests sat at tables in one of the largest hotels in the world. Some dinner, he says. In commenting on the magnificence and size of the great New York Railway stations, he goes on to add apropos of Americans, 'So it is with their ideas, whether they are building houses, or systems or business; with heightened ideals they look wide and see big.' This bigness Baden-Powell found also, we are glad to say, in other as well as material things. He praises warmly the spirit of the men who are making Scouting what it is in this country and declares from those of the British Scout Association, the aim is one and the same, namely to benefit the boyhood of the nation in every conceivable way. The Scout scheme of training has proved its worth, he says. It is for us to enlarge its sphere of usefulness."

A bill of lading for the car load of government foodstuffs sold through the postoffice in this city has been received by Postmaster Swope from the Chicago office and it is expected that the merchandise will arrive within the next few days.

FIRST NUMBER OF LYCEUM COURSE FRIDAY EVENING

Thomas Brooks Fletcher Will Give Lecture at First Methodist Church Beginning at 8 O'clock P. M.

An unusual opportunity is offered the citizens of Seymour in the coming of Brooks Fletcher to our city. Those who have heard him say "he is the most forceful and dramatic speaker on the American platform today."

Fletcher is also one of the most humorous men engaged in Lyceum work. If you have the blues hear Fletcher. If you want entertainment that is better than a Vaudeville, hear Fletcher. If you want to laugh for a week to come, don't fail to hear Fletcher.

Of course there is a serious side to his message, but perhaps there is no man today who can make the appeal through humor that Fletcher is capable of making.

"ROBIN HOOD" COMING

Majestic Theatre Secures Option on Big Musical Event.

Boosters for big musical entertainment events here at last have an opportunity to stand up and be counted. Manager Eagleston of the Majestic Theatre has secured an option on the Ralph Dunbar production of De Koven's master comic opera "Robin Hood" and if enough ticket subscriptions are secured the famous opera will be given here Friday October 17.

Subscribers will be given first choice of seats if it comes. The list will be started at once and those interested should call on or phone the manager, without delay.

"Robin Hood" was revived at the Park theatre, New York, last February and since then has appeared in more than one hundred cities. It opened the municipal opera in St. Louis, at Forest Park where the world's fair was held, in June last, and is undoubtedly the most loved of American operatic compositions. It is of course sung and spoken in plainest English. Its fun has caused millions to laugh and its songs and ensembles are recognized classics which delight all.

Ralph Dunbar, the producer has assembled a great cast, chorus, orchestra and scenic production which has been accorded extravagant praise in the press. The subscription method is practically the same as that followed in all cities where an expensive musical organization is sustained, and it is to be hoped that no effort will be spared to bring it here.

Miss Margaret Dannettell, who has been visiting relatives in Seymour for a few days, has returned home—Columbus Herald.

Big Lot of Hay Fever Jokes

But Kerkucky Man Says—"People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony are Kidding Themselves."

Wouldn't Be Any Rose or Hay Fever if Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"Yes, there's a real NINTY-NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city.

"But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning."

"The annual crop of hay-fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get an ounce of Mentholized Arcine and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer."

"Many of my hay-fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and snuff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear and in cases where it does show up is very mild and does not annoy."

"The Better Class of Pharmacists" who dispense Mentholized Arcine say it will greatly modify any attack even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin.

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint.

CHAPTER III.

Mrs. Delario's Diamonds.

To say I was astonished when I beheld that neat row of footgear with three teeth knocked out simply doesn't express it. I was flabbergasted. It wasn't only the mysteriousness of that particular theft—if theft it were—and why all three slippers had been taken and not one slipper, or one pair; it was that nothing so far as I could observe had been touched in the flat but just the particular objects that the day before had turned and toed the wall. Now they had walked off and left me.

Well, the end of all my puzzling was that I had my choice between two explanations—(1) that some person, name, age and sex unknown, motive impossible to guess, had entered my flat with a duplicate key and stolen the slippers; or (2) that Mrs. Delario had worked a "physical manifestation" to get her slipper home and had taken all three at once to be on the safe side.

One explanation seemed about as possible as the other, for I didn't see how anyone could have a duplicate key—even the janitor does not have a pass key to the flats in this house—and I didn't see how magic could carry off three slippers. But whatever way I put it I had still the unpleasant task of explaining the loss to Mrs. Delario. I remembered she'd said when we were buying them that they were more than she could afford, but she just must have them and would go without something else, and I was particularly mystified because of it. If I could in any way have replaced the slipper I'd have done so and never said a word about it.

Meantime I remembered that I hadn't communicated with Mrs. Delario since my return—though I had the slipper all that time. Then came a letter asking me would I do her a great, a very great favor—would I come to her house that Sunday evening at eight o'clock? The letter arrived on Sunday morning, special delivery.

I went, but I never once mentioned the slippers—slippers were the last things in my mind as I rang the bell.

Mrs. Delario herself admitted me, apologizing that her maid was away for her Sunday evening out, and what between welcoming handshakes and Mrs. Delario's taking off my coat and insisting on my taking off my hat and "being comfy," and my declining, and her leading me into the seance room Claire had told me about, and my astonishment at seeing it, slippers didn't occur to me and the chance to speak of them went by.

The seance room was as queer to my eye as it seemed to have been to Claire's. I think the impression uppermost in my mind was the soundlessness of the place. It seemed as remote from the bustling life of the great city in the midst of which it was as if it had been in the heart of a desert.

But Mrs. Delario left me but little time for observation; merely remarking that this was the seance room, she asked if I'd seen Claire and what I thought of her.

Well—I thought a great deal of her and many things about her, and while I was considering my answer Mrs. Delario propounded a question that fairly stunned me: "Do you think the girl could be a thief?"

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

"Oh, never—never in the world. What—Claire?" I cried hotly, and the picture of the high-bred girl came before me. I could as soon have thought my own sister a thief. Nevertheless I was soon at a loss to explain the episodes Mrs. Delario told me.

On the steamer, for instance, she had twice caught Claire turning over things in her—Mrs. Delario's—suitcase. Claire excused it once by saying she'd accidentally put some of her own toilet articles in it by mistake while she "was too sick to notice." But what finally brought about the crisis was this: A sitter had given Mrs. Delario a ten-dollar bill in payment for a reading, and she had gone hastily to her room for change, and returning had left her bedroom door ajar and a quantity of bills lying on the bureau which she hadn't stopped to put back into her purse. The moment she had shown the sitter out she went back to replace her purse and found Claire in her room. Claire was in the act of closing the wardrobe door and said she was looking for her muff! And why her muff in Mrs. Delario's wardrobe?

"But did she steal any money?" I demanded, almost in fear of the reply.

Mrs. Delario took some time to answer, and this is what she said: "You know I'm so fond of the child I'd rather think I made a mistake than that she robbed me. I had two five-dollar bills—a lot of twos and ones and several tens—and what I think I did was to take a five and a two—seven dollars—and rush downstairs. But what I might have done was taken the two fives—a five instead of a two—and give them to the lady. She didn't look at them. Anyway, the other five was gone."

It was this sort of thing about her that made me like Mrs. Delario so much—her willingness to excuse and to wait for final proofs of people's delinquencies. She hadn't even mentioned her suspicion to Claire; at the same time the incident decided her that she could on no account keep the child longer in the house, the worry of looking after her was too great, and she had told Claire this and that if her father didn't arrive by Monday Claire would have to go to a boarding school for safekeeping till he did. Monsieur le pere opportunely arrived next morning and took Claire away. That was Thursday—the day before she called on me—and Claire had been with Mrs. Delario just since Monday.

Very naturally, then, in all the story I never once thought of the slipper and that Mrs. Delario might be suspecting Claire of taking it also. But having, so to speak, settled Claire in saying that she had left on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Delario quickly switched the conversation on the real subject of my visit. She introduced it by saying that Lila—who was still in a boarding school near Philadelphia—was breaking down and might have to be sent abroad for treatment—she seemed to be developing spinal trouble, though the doctors here really didn't seem to know what ailed the child; and then the sentence I clearly remember was, "I'm very greatly in need of money."

I fear I must have drawn back suddenly—I actually thought she was trying to borrow of me—for she smiled and answered my unspoken words: "I don't mean I want to borrow anything. I have some property I want to dispose of. I want to sell some rubies."

"Why, Mrs. Delario, I'm not a dealer," I replied quickly.

"I know you're not—that's why I thought you could help me better than anyone else. The stones were left me by a great-uncle in France, and I may as well confess it now—they came in duty free."

"Smuggled?" I interjected.

"Well, a friend brought them over and they weren't found when the baggage was examined. But don't you see that was why I could sell them at a bargain?"

"I don't know anybody who deals in smuggled gems."

"Of course—but you needn't tell that—you don't actually know how they got in—you are selling them for a friend. It's because you don't know that that you can sell them better than I can. At least you wouldn't mind looking at the stones and telling me what they're worth so I'll have something to go on? I haven't an idea how valuable they are."

"Take them to Tiffany's," I suggested.

"I'm afraid to take them anywhere, to tell you the truth. Eugene took them to a place on Maiden lane yesterday and the people acted so queerly, Eugene—he's very psychic—got the impression that they were going to accuse him of smuggling them or something of the kind—stealing the rubies, perhaps from them—and he put them in his pocket and ran out. He thinks he was followed, but he couldn't make sure. Don't you see how easy it would be for anyone to accuse a lone woman of theft?"

"But how would they prove anything?" I interrupted. "If the stones are yours—"

SHORTAGE OF TEXTS STILL EXISTS IN SOME COUNTIES

State Board of Education to Take Further Action at Meeting Called for Tomorrow.

Indianapolis, October 8—A shortage of the state-adopted school textbooks still exists in many counties of the state, according to reports received by L. N. Hines, state superintendent of public instruction. Representatives of the companies holding contracts assured the state board of education at its special meeting on Sept. 26 that the shortage would be entirely eliminated by Oct. 1. The reports given Mr. Hines yesterday by school officials in many sections indicate that the schools are working under a serious handicap through the inability of pupils to secure textbooks.

The state board of education will meet in regular session tomorrow morning and Mr. Hines will place the situation before the board. It is expected that some sort of drastic action will be taken to compel the companies to meet their contract obligations. At the special session of the board W. B. Conkey, of the W. B. Conkey Company of Hammond, Ind., the firm which prints many Indiana text books, told the board that all orders for texts would be filled by Oct. 1. Representatives of the companies holding state contracts, following the lead of Mr. Conkey, named Oct. 1 as the date when ample books to meet the needs of the schools would be available.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS. In Serbia.

As far back as the first winter of the war, the Red Cross sent to Serbia a sanitary commission that effectively checked the scourge of typhus, but after the United States entered the conflict, the Red Cross was able, in August, 1917, to send a full commission that carried on extensive relief operations among the suffering refugees of the tortured nation. Hospitals were established, the refugees fed, clothed and given medical attention, the army supplied with much needed dental treatment, farm machinery, and seeds provided to help the Serbs redeem their land to productivity, and, not least, measures undertaken for the succor of the children. The terrible condition into which these helpless victims of the war had fallen is well portrayed by this photograph of a little Serbian girl wearing the rags and expression of hopeless dismay that were all she possessed when the Red Cross came.

Women Are Careless.

This has been proved over and over again during the war. They over-estimate their physical strength and overtax it. Their ambition is commendable, but does not compensate for the hours and days of misery which they suffer from symptoms caused by female ills brought on by overwork. Women who are weak, nervous, despondent, with headaches, backache and dragging-down pains should remember there is one tried and true remedy, that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for such ailments. Advertisement

On July 22, 1919 Mrs. Owens said: "As the years go by my faith in Doan's Kidney Pills strengthens. I can't express in words the wonderful benefit I have derived from Doan's during the past twenty years." 60c, at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

acter which would direct visiting tourists through the city to the roads which they desire to follow. Mr. Carter said that several plans were under consideration and that some of them called for entrances which would be more attractive and elaborate than are found anywhere in Indiana.

Attention was also given to the proposed establishment of an aviation landing field in this city. Carl G. Fisher of Indianapolis, proposes to establish a motor route between Indianapolis and Miami, Fla., and has suggested to the chamber of commerce that the only stop between Indianapolis and Louisville be made in this city. The members of the chamber of commerce believe that this service will become one of great importance within the next few years and are anxious to take advantage of the offer to arrange for a landing field here. Options on several sites have been secured, it was announced at the meeting.

Albert H. Ahlbrand, chairman of a special committee, to investigate the sewerage system here, reported that an engineer was in the city and arrangements were made to meet with him at the Masonic Building this afternoon.

The meeting was full of enthusiasm and interest and the members believe that many important movements for the benefit of the city will originate during the coming year. Mr. Shields has the support and cooperation of the membership and with the united activity which is promised there is no reason why the next twelve months should not be productive of some of the greatest advancements that have ever been in Seymour.
